Making Connections to Today

Support for All Students

Student and Teacher Editions, Inquiry Journal, Digital Courseware, and more

Culturally Responsive Connections

Culturally Responsive Connections in the Teacher Edition support teachers in creating a classroom that supports all students.

- In each Introduction Lesson, Points to Consider encourages teachers to be self-reflective and think about how to support students with different backgrounds as they learn about history. The Points to Consider include an overview of difficult issues in the topic, tips for how to support students with concrete examples, self-reflection questions, and questions to help connect the material to today.
- Learn the Events and Inquiry Activity Lessons include point-of-use background information along with Questions to Consider for discussing different voices and perspectives in history with an emphasis on achievement. There is also additional support for difficult language from history and sensitive photographs and imagery.

Instructional Pathway

McGraw Hill Social Studies provides flexibility and customizable options to support teachers with the way they want to teach and the way students learn. Each topic includes an Introduction Lesson, a series of Learn the Events Lessons and Inquiry Activity Lessons, and a Review & Apply Lesson.
